PARENTS' DAY IS TO BE OBSERVED IN CITY SCHOOLS

Supt. Carnagey Desires That
Patrons Get Better Acquainted
With Teachers and the School and They Will be Invited to Visit.

MAY SEE WORK IN PROGRESS

"Parent day" is the latest feature to be inaugurated in the Paducah schools, and Friday afternoon, October 25, will probably be the date set for a meeting of parents and teachers. It is the idea of Supt. John A. Carnagey. He believes that teachers, pupils and parents should become better acquainted.

When parents are acquainted with the teachers of their children, and know what kind of work is being done, and what means are being employed to do it, they are more likely to take interest and assist the teacher. On parents' day Superintendent Carnagey desires for all mothers and fathers to go to the rooms where their children are being taught. Regular work will be exhibited, but the greater part of the afternoon will be spent by teachers and parents in becoming better acquainted.

High School Talks.
Literary societies in the high school will be organized this week. The work in the school is now straightened out and features can be arranged without interfering with the regular work.

Principal Sugg will inaugurate a feature of lectures which he believes will prove extremely popular. He desires to have some man who has been successful in his line to deliver an address on his particular work. For instance he would like to have Superintendent W. J. Hills, of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad, to talk about railroading, the best way to get into it, the possibilities for boys and other important points. He would like to have a successful attorney discuss the possibilities of a legal career for boys, and mechanical engineer to talk on that subject. He desires pupils to know as much as possible about different vocations, that they be better fitted to adopt a trade or profession when graduated from school.

This morning equipment for basket ball arrived and teams will be organized at once.

This morning Superintendent John A. Carnagey talked briefly to the high school. His talk was greatly enjoyed.

IN FOWLKES STORE
NEAR DYERSBURG

Dyersburg, Tenn., Oct. 14.—Burglars entered the store of T. J. Fitzhugh, at Fowlkes, a station on the Illinois Central, five miles south of here, some time during the night and blowing the safe with nitro-glycerin and dynamite, secured $60 in postage stamps, $15 in cash and a quantity of valuable notes. The notes were thrown away on the public highway and Mr. Fitzhugh found most of them this morning. The postoffice is in his store, and the stamps belonged to the government.

G. W. Simpson and his pack of bloodhounds were sent for and the dogs put on the trail. They ran down two negroes in the Samaria neighborhood, and they were arrested. They confessed to having been in the neighborhood of the store the night before but said they were returning from church and knew nothing about the robbery. Officers brought them here and they are now in jail.

NO IMPROVEMENT.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 14.—Financial circles here are discussing the important statement of President McCrea, of the Pennsylvania railroad, that there is no program for the contemplated improvement of the Pennsylvania lines. McCrea said: "For some reason investors feel such a lack of confidence in the situation, they appear unwilling to supply the capital for developing railroads and other industries."

ENGINES EXPLODE.

The explosion of gasoline engines propelling Everett Ferguson's motor boat, in front of the Paducah wharf, yesterday afternoon about 2 o'clock, created much excitement, and it was all that Ferguson could do to keep boys from jumping from the craft into the Ohio river. He had thrown his engine on the reverse too suddenly to prevent running down a skiff, and his engine will have to be practically rebuilt.

In Ferguson's boat were Carl Biederman, Walter Winfree, Charles Thompson and several other boys. They were making about 6 miles an hour when a skiff darted across their path. The steersman was unable to throw the boat around, and Ferguson, seeing that a collision seemed inevitable, quickly jammed his lever on the reverse. The change was too much for the engine, and they exploded, one cylinder head being shattered and the engine rendered useless. The launch was towed ashore by another launch.

Captain Cole Is Upheld.

The charges against Captain Mark Cole, of the steamer Dick Fowler, for infraction of river rules while on the trip down the Mississippi to the waterway convention probably will be heard at Cairo, which is acceptable to the parties concerned, as it will obviate the necessity of a trip to Memphis and consequent loss of time. The charges, according to a Washington special in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, are that the Fowler crowded the light house steamer

One of McCracken County's Oldest and Best Known Citizens Who Has Been Honored by His Fellow Citizens, Lies at the Point of Death

CAREER OF EMINENT JURIST

Hon. L. D. Husbands, 84 years old, one of the oldest and most noted jurists in the state, lies at the point of death, and physicians say he can live but a short time. This morning at 9 o'clock it was reported that he had died, his pulse having disappeared entirely. Physicians were summoned and a minute examination showed that life was not extinct, and stimulants survived him; but his pulse was weak and is kept up only by the stimulants.

Lorenzo Dow Husbands, lawyer, was born December 18, 1823, in Christian county, Ky., where the family settled in 1805. When two years old his parents removed to Crittenden county, where his father followed farming, and where L. D. Husbands received his early education. In 1847 he studied law with his brother, J. T. Husbands, at Paducah, and in 1850 he was admitted to practice, which he began as a partner to Judge Morrow. In 1855 he was elected to the office of commonwealth's attorney, which he filled with ability for one year. In 1859 he represented McCracken county in the state legislature for one term.

Col. Husbands was never a politician in the accepted sense of the term, but he wielded a potent influence in public matters. He was always a Democrat. He is a man of splendid appearance, tall and straight and impresses every one as man possessed of more than ordinary talent. Judge Husbands was a lawyer of great ability and easily takes rank as one of the greatest of his times in the state. He is a gentleman of the old school, of great integrity, true to his clients, and friends and urbane to all. Among his associates of the profession he is acknowledged to be one of the foremost and talented lawyers in Kentucky. He possesses a logical mind and in the practice of his profession always treated his opponents with due respect seeking to convince by sound argument, rather than by witlessness or sharp practice. As a chancery lawyer he, perhaps, has no equal in the commonwealth. Col. Husbands was deservedly successful in his profession. Commencing as a poor boy, by marked ability he acquired a handsome fortune, and is now perhaps one of the largest land owners in the county. He was always charitable and consequently is greatly respected and loved. He was married in 1851 to Miss Hannah Singleton, and in 1859 contracted his second marriage, this time to Mrs. Bullock, a daughter of — W. Cook, of Caldwell county.

Judge Husbands served several terms as a councilman and was city attorney for three terms. He was elected in 1857 circuit judge and served the full term of six years. Judge Husbands was chief justice in a special court of appeals appointed to try the Buford murder case 30 years ago and rendered the opinion. So complete was the opinion that it was published in pamphlet form and distributed over the state. Buford was a Justice in the appellate court, when charged with murder, and this disqualifies the regular court of appeals from sitting.

He was surprised to see the wonderful growth of Paducah. He is the guest of his son, Mr. L. H. Davis, of 1117 South Fourth street, and will remain here several weeks. Mr. Davis came here from Kansas City. He has lived in the west since the war. He was in camp about where the Higbee mill stand and pointed out the place yesterday when going over the city. He remembers but few localities, the city having changed so greatly. Twenty-three years ago he passed through the city, but did not get off the car. During his fight here he was wounded, and occasionally his wound gives him a little trouble.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—After an all night vigil, resulting from the crisis in the telegraphers' strike, the national executive board returned to headquarters today, apparently with a full realization that masterly diplomacy is necessary to prevent a split in the ranks of the union. An immense crowd soon blocked Broadway for many blocks. Police reserves were summoned and the crowd dispersed. Two men were arrested, charged with disorderly conduct.

CANDLE MOTH CHOKED HIM

HEALTH OF WOMEN

In the nineteenth century to keep up with the march of progress every power of woman is strained to its utmost, and the tax upon her physical system is far greater than ever. In the good old-fashioned days of our grandmothers few drugs were used in medicines. They relied upon roots and herbs to cure weaknesses and disease, and their knowledge of roots and herbs was far greater than that of women today.

It was in this study of roots and herbs that Lydia E. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., discovered and gave to the women of the world a remedy more potent and efficacious than any combination of drugs.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

is an honest, tried and true remedy of unquestionable therapeutic value. This medicine made from native roots and herbs contains no narcotics or other harmful drugs and today holds the record for the largest number of cures of female diseases of any medicine the world has ever known, and thousands of voluntary testimonials are on file in the laboratory at Lynn, Mass., which testify to its wonderful value.

Mrs. C. E. Fink, of Carnegie, Pa., writes:—Dear Mrs. Pinkham: "I wish every suffering woman would take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and write to you for advice. It has done me a world of good and what it has accomplished for me I know it will do for others."

When women are troubled with Irregularities, Displacements, Ulceration, Inflammation, Backache, Nervous Prostration, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to write Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Out of her vast volume of experience she probably has the very knowledge that will help your case.

What Does It Mean?

Thundering to the climax of his address in a wonderful outburst of eloquence and earnestness Mr. Wilson said: "What mean these large audiences of the state? It means the uprisings of the people against greed and oppression and the throttling of their rights. It means the same resolution that shook Republican Pennsylvania and swept a Democratic governor into office. It means that this isn't a Republican matter, but a Kentucky matter."

TIRED OF GRAFT AND COMPETITION

Tired of the Machine and its Incompetence

Tired of the Abuse of Power and Neglect of State's Welfare and Voters of Kentucky.

ROUSING SPEECH OF WILLSON.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Oct. 14.—Moving to intense enthusiasm 2,500 Kentuckians of Christian county, whose zeal for the welfare of their state has obliterated all party lines and differences, Augustus E. Willson gave a splendid exposition of American principle and policy at this place.

In the audience were hundreds of tobacco growers, and it was to them that Mr. Willson especially directed a portion of his belief in the right of all men to associate and organize for mutual benefit and protection, and it was with pleasure that he had watched the tobacco growers fraternizing in this manner for the purpose of obtaining higher prices for their crops and other advantages not calculated to accrue from individual effort.

He did not believe though, that any organization of that or any other kind should be dedicated to anything but law and order, and said that nine out of ten Kentuckians agreed with his views straight from the shoulder.

He said: "I brook no compromise with the disorderly spirits in any organization. I condemn unreservedly men who shoot into other men's houses and injure their property and destroy their crops. I say this so that the man who doesn't agree with me may vote against me. I am a law and order Kentuckian."

Refuge for Henchmen.

Pointing his outstretched arm in the direction of the state asylum, which could be seen through the open window, he denounced the management and conduct of the institution under the present state administration as a refuge for political henchmen, where unfortunate Kentuckians were misused and maltreated in the name of politics.

"I speak right here where some of the gravest wrongs and most glaring crimes have been committed in Kentucky. I pledge you that when I am governor that institution out there shall not be a nasty political machine."

Mr. Willson took some of the Democratic machine campaign speakers sharply to task for raising the stale cliches of negro domination and negro equality in their desperate efforts to dodge real important issues before the people.

He appealed to the sensible men to whom he was talking, as to their opinion of Congressman Stanley, for instance, who has been "eating fire" of this kind for some weeks.

"You men have hearts on your faces," he said, "what do you think of the moral and political condition of a man who says that a vote for me and my ticket means mixed schools. Must be beneath the contempt of honorable Kentuckians."

World Vote It Down.

"You never saw a man, white or black, in Kentucky that wanted mixed schools, and if such a proposition was put to them, they'd both vote it down. This all means, 'I haven't anything to say that is true, and so I'll stir up all the mud I can find.' Usually the man who stirs up mud is the one who becomes bespattered with it, and it is so in this instance."

"Mr. Bryan says that it will be a black eye for the Democratic party if you carry Kentucky Republican. I say that it will be a black eye for Kentucky if you carry it machine Democratic."

GROWING CHILDREN

Advice to Mothers of Paducah.

Perhaps the most important principle involved in the care of a child is proper nourishment.

How many delicate children do we see and held spellbound by a beau- meet on our streets with colorless faces and thin little legs and arms, an angelic halo, which fades away as it is very plain to be seen that rapid growth takes all their strength and leaves to Mephisto's demand and their little bodies are not receiving a compact meal.

The aged and seedy philosopher is transformed into a handsome youth, burning with passion and eager with anticipation. From this time forward all thought is of Marguerite.

Then follow his meetings with her, their mutual love, his betrayal of her confidence, the poisoning of her mother, while seeking only to make her slumber more deeply; the return of Valentine, her soldier brother, whose anguish and rage knows no bounds when informed of his blasted home.

He meets Faust in duel and by the devil's aid is killed. Insolent Mephisto excites the justice-loving neighbors of Marguerite by informing them of the seeming unnatural murder of her mother, and she is carried off to prison. Faust finds his way to Marguerite's cell partly demented. He proposes to carry her away to escape the dread consequences of her crime, but at this time the gentle spirit goes out and Mephisto claims Faust as his own. He is saved by the intervention of the spirit of repentance and remorse.

THEATRICAL NOTES

AT THE KENTUCKY.

Monday—Mahara's Minstrels (colored.)

Wednesday—Beulah Poynter in "Lena Rivers."

Thursday—Helen Grantley in Clyde Fitch's "Woman in the Case."

Saturday—(matinee and night) Porter J. White's "Faust."

A Clyde Fitch Play.

After witnessing the rather gross violation of the human mind last week in Ibsen's "Doll's House," patrons of the Kentucky will enjoy going to the other extreme this week and reviving in on of Clyde Fitch's efforts to tickle the fancy. Fitch's plays have a certain definiteness and delicacy of art that appeals to all lovers of the drama for the pleasure they get out of it. Helen Grantley will present, for the first time in Paducah, "The Woman in the Case" Thursday night.

"Lena Rivers."

It is said that Beulah Poynter, who plays the title role in "Lena Rivers," has visited all the scenes of that popular book and has met several of the people after whom Mrs. Holmes modeled her characters.

It is not generally known, but Mrs. Mary J. Holmes wrote her book, "Lena Rivers," which has made such a popular and successful play, around scenes which she actually visited, and modeled her characters after people she knew in those localities.

At the Kentucky Wednesday night

Porter J. White's "Faust."

PURGE THE PARTY.

A good Democrat is the most desirable citizen we know of, except a good Republican, a good Prohibitionist, a good Socialist or an honest independent voter. He is no whit less desirable than any of these.

We admire a good Democrat; a Democrat who is a Democrat, because, on the whole, that party represents those ideas of government and policies, which he considers surest and best; who insists on his party living up to its ideals and traditions, both in the character of its measures, and whose jealous regard for the good name and welfare of his party leads him to take an active interest in the organization.

We believe a good Democrat is first a good citizen. He owes a higher duty to his country and state than he does to his party. It is necessarily so, because his party affiliation is but the means he adopts to express his views at the general election on governmental policies, and when his chosen party departs from those views and policies, or conditions change, rendering them unsatisfactory, party allegiance becomes a form of political servitude to the voter and the name an empty sound.

The good Democrat or the good Republican sometimes feels under obligation to his party, as a party of principle; but never to any coterie of self-seeking politicians, who from time to time enter the family circle and bring about the family circle some fishes may have set up for prophets on their own hook and attempted to make allegiance to their selfish interests the test of party loyalty.

Sailors in the navy must follow and obey the flag; but when her crew mutinies and hoists the black pennant of piracy and sells out, not to meet a foe, but to prey off legitimate commerce, must the other ships follow and aid the piratical crew in their depredations against the public wealth, or must they turn their guns on the flagship and drive the pirates from the craft?

As a good partisan, having the welfare of his party at heart, sometimes it becomes necessary for the voter to purge his party; to drive out the time servers and restore the organization to the purity of its principles. He owes that obligation as a citizen of the state and country.

When the ablest and most upright men of a party are relegated to private life and men of mediocre ability, of immoral character and dissolute habits are placed in command; when, unable to face a direct challenge on the issues of a campaign, or when in a local campaign, the personnel of the ticket in any particular fails to be representative of the community's true citizenship, and resort is had to mendacity and appeals to prejudice; these are symptoms, which the good partisan may not ignore.

Two years ago Ohio, a state Republican by 100,000 majority, went Democratic.

That result was not achieved by a change of party principles on the part of 75,000 voters; nor was it by reason of an overwhelming influx of Democrats. Ohio is more strongly Republican now than she was two years ago. She is more strongly Republican by reason of the fact that the Democrats carried the state.

The Republican party is stronger and better because certain politicians were discredited and relegated to oblivion and others warned that they must present men and measures to meet the approval of an independent, discerning constituency. Ohio is not a Democratic state, because, she elected a Democratic governor two years ago, nor is Cincinnati a Democratic city, because she elected a Democratic mayor. The men, who voted for these two officials, do not consider that they lost caste by exercising the right of freemen. They rightfully consider themselves good Republicans. They were playing the part of good Republicans and patriotic citizens when they purged their party of bad bosses.

Kentuckians have a duty to perform this fall. Kentucky Democrats are facing a crisis. They have seen their old leaders retired and replaced by mere politicians. They see a machine in the capitol, that rotates in office men whose service is tainted with iniquity, and men who have reduced the meaning of Democratic success to their systematic progression through offices, hallowed by the traditions of statesmanship and patriotic service.

Opposed to this system, the Republican party this year presents a man, who upholds the highest ideals of Kentucky politics, and who appeals to the best that is in our citizenship. His arguments are met with appeals to the most ignoble passions that could degrade mankind.

In our city affairs, we see the wheels of the state machine turn cog in cog with a subsidiary machine of local politics. We see a representative from Frankfort, one well known to our people, assuming the functions of a pro-consult, to insure the will and methods of the "machinocrats" at Frankfort are carried out.

What does the success of the Democratic ticket mean?

It means the encouragement of an omnious machine at Frankfort, which, while it dissipates the state's wealth in perpetuating itself, stunts the development of Kentucky's resources and blights the aspirations of her young men. It means the final retirement of local party leaders, the dominance of aliens in our home affairs and the reduction of the Democratic party in McCracken county to subservience to the ends of the machine at Frankfort, and the adoption of Franklin county election methods in Paducah.

It means that men who have fought the battles of Democracy through many a hard struggle, have been driven out of the party councils. Some of them have been personally maligned, but now they are being scourged into a pretext of loyalty to the ticket, and that by a paper, whose Democracy has been questioned by the very fact it is now supporting.

Isn't there something of this sort brewing? Listen to the threat of a servile party organ:

"A small coterie of Democrats in Paducah, possibly the number will not exceed a half dozen, are sulking silently in their tents during the present campaign, and much with the disposition of children, refuse to come forth unto the political family fire-side.

"While not openly opposed to the local city ticket, they have not been heard to express their support of same.

"Another fact that adds its measure of astonishment over such a course is that some of those who now are assuming this like warm position, have been members of the Democratic family for so many years, harking, as it were, in the sunshine of party favor. Some have been given the favored seats at the family table, and been served sumptuously of the viands thereon. To them, home has been within the ranks of their party of choice and happiness in doing what they could for this self-same party. Now because the majority of their party has seen fit to fishes may have set up for prophets on their own hook and attempted to make allegiance to their selfish interests the test of party loyalty.

Sailors in the navy must follow and obey the flag; but when her crew mutinies and hoists the black pennant of piracy and sells out, not to meet a foe, but to prey off legitimate commerce, must the other ships follow and aid the piratical crew in their depredations against the public wealth, or must they turn their guns on the flagship and drive the pirates from the craft?

INTO PORT

OCEANIC STEAMSHIP MARIPOSA IS TOWED BY TUGS.

Adrift Without Fuel Off Monterey She Was Helpless in Picturesque Bay. She Used Coal Oil.

SAM Francisco, Oct. 14.—The Oceanic Steamship company's steamer "Mariposa" which was adrift without fuel twenty miles off Monterey, was towed into port Sunday afternoon by the tugs "Dauntless" and "Relief." In addition to her crew the Mariposa had twenty-seven passengers including several women and children on board.

Last Thursday night the Mariposa exhausted her supply of coal oil. On Friday First Officer W. D. Watson volunteered to try to reach the coast in a small boat for the purpose of securing aid and a tow. Watson, accompanied by Seamen J. Wyberg, F. Brewer, E. Jaded and J. Ostheldt embarked in the ship's wrecking boat rigged as a yawl. Provisions to last a week were placed in the boat. They headed for Monterey bay and sailed straight for that haven driven along by a fresh west wind until they were about 15 miles off the shore. At 2 o'clock the wind died out but the sailors rowed to Monterey from whence word of the steamer's plight was sent to this city. Tugs were at once sent out. Yesterday afternoon the "Dauntless" was later joined by the "Relief" who assisted in towing the Mariposa into port.

STABBED TO DEATH

MAMIE PEARL KILLED BY ALEX WADE, HER LOVER.

Bonstabout From Joe Fowler Arrested on Charge of Murder Saturday Night.

Mamie Pearl, alias Gertrude Pennington, colored, was stabbed Saturday night at Second and Washington streets by Alex Wade, a roustabout followed by the steamer Joe Fowler, and she died in the patrol wagon while being taken to Dr. J. D. Robertson's office. Two hours after the killing the alleged murderer was captured.

Wade missed a trip on the Fowler and was in town Saturday night. He is known, but the shooting is supposed to have followed a bitter quarrel of the previous day and renewed in the night.

General Syck and his bride had just returned from their honeymoon trip through the south. He was a brother of George Syck, of Pikeville, one of Pike county's successful business men and prominent politicians. The murdered woman was General Syck's third wife. His first wife died two years ago, and his second wife divorced him about one year ago.

It is thought that General Syck's mad became unbalanced, due to his quarrel with his bride, as he was known to have been desperately in love with her and insanely jealous. He was one of the richest men in the county.

Slowly though steadily the river continues to fall and this morning the water on the government gauge had dropped to 6.8, which is the lowest point of the season. Steamers find difficulty in passing the shoals and bars in the river and a large number are waiting their turn at the docks and ways, where they will be repaired during the poor boating season.

MAD JEALOUSY

CAUSED VETERAN TO KILL HIMSELF AND WIFE.

General Webb Syck and Young Wife Found Dead at Their Mansion Near Pikeville.

Pikeville, Ky., Oct. 14.—General Webb Syck, a civil war veteran with a brilliant record, is believed to have inured his young bride of two weeks and himself at their splendid mansion in Fairview, a suburb of Pikeville.

Just before daylight a shot rang out in the handsome Syck home, and a few moments later another was heard. Neighbors rushed to the scene, and were greeted by a horrifying sight. In the yard lay General Syck. The entire top of his head had been blown away. A short search inside the house revealed the other figure in the tragedy. Stretched out face down, on the bed end clothed only in her night robe, as was her husband, lay the still warm body of Mrs. Syck, blood oozing from a terrible wound in the back of her head and another in her forehead, where the bullet had passed out after tearing its way entirely through. The position of the body indicated that Mrs. Syck had been killed without a struggle. She was formerly Mrs. Jane Burris connected with some of the most prominent families in northeastern Kentucky.

The cause of the tragedy is not known, but the shooting is supposed to have followed a bitter quarrel of the previous day and renewed in the night.

General Syck and his bride had just returned from their honeymoon trip through the south. He was a brother of George Syck, of Pikeville, one of Pike county's successful business men and prominent politicians. The murdered woman was General Syck's third wife. PEANUT COMPANY

CASE INVOLVES AMERICAN-GERMAN BANK.

Suit Filed in Federal Court Against Bank by Philadelphia Concern.

Rosser P. Birdsong, doing business under the name of Birdsong & Company, of Philadelphia, against the American-German National Bank, is the style of a suit filed in federal court here this morning by Attorneys Eaton & Boyd. The suit is to collect $2,641. The petition alleges that the plain-iff brought two car loads of peanuts from the Southern Peanut company and that the first car load shipped was paid for before it was discovered that some of the goods was inferior to contract grades. The second car load was attached by Birdsong, and in order to secure payment of the draft and release the peanuts from attachment the bank agreed to stand good any loss Birdsong might suffer. Peanuts to the amount of $2,641 were shipped back as inferior and the peanut company is alleged to have refused to make good. The Philadelphia firm is now seeking to recover its loss from the bank.
